The Gathering of the People

First Congregational Church of Los Angeles is a safe place for all people, and we celebrate our diversity of race, creed, age, ability, gender, religion, cultural background, sexual orientation, gender identities and expressions... We extend a warm welcome to all this morning and especially those who are with us for the first time. Your presence both enriches us and this time of celebration together ~

Please note that our services are live streamed at fccla.org/live.

Words of Gathering

Members of Laude

The ancient ones saw it this way:

In the beginning, the Holy One allowed the light,
'Let there be light,'
and from Spirit's being,
radiance emerged
that lit creation's path toward its sacred future.

The scientists see it this way:

In the beginning, from the darkness and emptiness of nothingness,
an unaccountable explosion of radiation
expanded outward in all directions,
which now our measurements can measure.

The first disciples saw it this way:

Jesus, too, allowed the light to brighten dark death's reign,
announcing a new creation,
brightened by justice for all.

We might look at it this way:

That same light that shone in Jesus shines now
through us,
and whether this becomes real to us – or not – depends on whether we allow an eternal shining

to light our path
into a future that awaits
our distinctive stamp.

Let there be light.

Creator God You Gave Us Life

TALLIS' CANON

Creator God, you gave us life, your image formed within our souls,
Yet through the mist of time and space, we search for that which makes us whole.

In every flower and every tree, we see your great diversity,
Yet greater still we see your love, expressed in our humanity.

When with our hearts, our hands, our minds, we share our gifts with all the world,
Our spirits soar beyond the veil, to touch the very face of God.

Through hands that paint majestic skies, and voices chanting melody,
With words that reach beyond the page, we comprehend your mystery.

Prayer of Awareness

Rev. Lehman

All things are born of you, O God.
We carry within us your light and your life.

In the mystery of matter
and deep in the cells of our souls
are your longings for oneness.

The oneness of the universe
vast and vibrating with the sound of its beginning.

The oneness of the earth
greening and teaming as a single body.

The oneness of the human soul
a sacred countenance in infinite form.

*As we consider the beauty
of this earth and our life together,
grant us your longings for oneness, O God,
amidst all life's glorious multiplicities.
Amen and Amen!*

Rise Up, My Love!

ELEANOR DALEY

TEXT: SONG OF SOLOMON 2:10-13

Tiffany Ho, Molly Pease, Anna Caplan, Chohi Kim, Quartet, Dr. Ianthe Marini, Conductor

*Rise up, my Love, my fair one, and come away. For lo! The winter has passed, the rain is over and gone.
The flowers appear upon the earth, the time of the singing of birds is come.*

The Lord's Prayer

Ayur Barduev

*O Breathing Life, your Name shines everywhere!
Release a space to plant your Presence here.
Imagine your possibilities now.
Embody your desire in every light and form.
Grow through us this moment's bread and wisdom.
Untie the knots of failure binding us,
as we release the strands we hold of others' faults.
Help us not forget our Source.
Yet free us from not being in the Present.
From you arises every Vision, Power, and Song,
from gathering to gathering.
Amen.*

[translation from the Aramaic]

Gloria Deo

Glory be to God, and to the Christ and to the Holy Ghost,
As it was in the beginning, is now and ever shall be.
World without end, Amen, Amen.

Passing of the Peace

Rev. Lehman

In this world of differences
we are challenged to see the sacred in many faces and many traditions.

In this world of options,
we are challenged to remain true to what we know
of that sacredness, of ourselves, of those we love.

In this world of blessing,
we know gifts of beauty and wonder and seek to ground them in all holiness.

May the differences we find this day bless us with a deep and sustained awareness of the presence of the sacred in our oft-confusing world.

This morning, may the peace of God be with you.
And also with you!

You are invited to share this ancient greeting with a bow

Reading from the Wisdom of Our Tradition

Ayur Barduev

A Reading from Psalm 1 ~ A 21st Century Exploration by Francis Macnab
There are many pathways in front of us.
We see some people take pathways that turn-out to be destructive and unhealthy.
But our happiness and well-being depend on us

taking the pathways that keep us connected with the best purposes
and with the best spirit.

Look carefully at the tree that flourishes beside the river - its leaves are healthy and it bears fruit in season.
We can be like the tree.
But we can forget all that and become like chaff blown in all directions by the wind.

God of all life has created in us a desire to be the best we can be.
When we follow that desire,
our whole being is strongly affirmed.
But when we become indifferent to that desire,
we lose our connection with the best purposes
and the best spirit. [FMacnab/fwb]

This is the witness of the people.
Thanks be to God!

Prayers with the People
Invitation to Silence and Prayer
Silence

Rev. Lehman

Prayer of Our Hearts
Creating God,
what incredible diversity exists in our world –
in nature, in our bodies, in our beliefs.
We live along the invisible line that runs between
the 'this' and 'that' of our existence,
shifting our choices,
developing our ideas,
bending to the wisdom of those whose perspectives we value.

*May we ever seek and celebrate the truths discovered along a line illuminated by the best of who we are,
what we think,
what we value.*

And may we hold to that line,
ever loving into the best of who we are and may be.

*As those born into light,
yet ever seeking it,
we pray.
Amen and Amen.*

Two Falling Stars
Laude, Dr. Ianthe Marini, Conductor

PAUL JOHN RUDOL, TEXT: HAFIZ

Let us be like two falling stars in the day sky. Let no one know of our sublime beauty as we hold hands with God. And burn into a sacred existence that defies – that surpasses – every description of ecstasy and love.

Doxology

From all that dwell below the skies,
let the Creator's praise arise!
Alleluia! Alleluia!
till suns shall rise and set no more.
Alleluia! Alleluia!
Alleluia! Alleluia! Alleluia!

[adapt/Isaac Watts, 1719]

Offering Prayer

Ayur Barduev

*God our Creator,
you have made us one with this earth,
to tend it and to bring forth the fruit of our labor;
may we so respect and cherish
all that has life from you,
that we will continually share
all that we are and all that we have,
to bring forth your dream for our world.
Amen and Amen.*

Words of Blessing

Rev. Fregin

May the Holy One,
who never ceases to practice
the art of creating,
keep us ever
at the edge of our skills,
our habits,
our vision,
that we may never grow so content
in our creating

that we miss the God
who is ever about
to do a new thing.

Inside The Music

“Our musical texts today are written by ancient poets in the wisdoms of world traditions: the Song of Solomon and Psalms 23 both from the Hebrew Scriptures, Two Falling Stars by the 14th century Persian mystic Hafiz, and As One Sky by the 15th century Indian mystic Kabir, whose writings are found in the Hindu, Sikh, and Sufi traditions.

As we continue to explore the interconnectedness of our lives in this autumnal series, we remember that it is from the rich diversity of our Sacred Earth that we are created, nurtured, and sustained, and to that same Earth that we are welcomed back home. Today, as our theme invites us to paint the stars and imagine a future, we learn from the textual wisdom of the ancient teachers who knew how to live from the Earth, recognizing that any future we foresee must be in reverence and in sacred communion with Her.

The textual imagery of the day is set evocatively to music: first by Eleanor Daley in our introit, whose four part setting for treble voices of the Song of Solomon invokes the sacredness of the Divine Feminine — her ebb and flow, her beckoning us back into our bodies which were created in love. And then in the 23rd Psalm set by John Rutter, whose use of the oboe—an instrument made of wood creating sound by human air vibrating through nature’s reed—paints pastoral pictures of a symbiotic relationship between the human, spiritual, and natural worlds. The ancient psalm reminding us that from the Earth we have all we need, and indeed, our cup overflows.

In offertory we explore the vivid poetry of Hafiz set by Paul John Rudoi in his cycle Song of Sky and Sea: A Song of Realization as we find that it is through nature that we hold hands with God, creating sacred existence together—that through this relationship in Nature we find that we even surpass our defining of love. And finally, with the mystic poetry of Kabir, from Rudoi’s same cycle, we sing that through the light of sun, moon, and stars, Divine Love swells. In our current climate crisis and gross misuse of the planet’s resources, we imagine a future today by remembering that it is only possible through our committed protection and radical care of the Sacred Earth.” ~ Dr. Ianthe Marini
